Pathwork Lecture 88: Religion: True and False

1996 Edition, Given September 15, 1961

This lecture is given in an expanded poetic format, what I call a Devotional Format of the lecture, and in that sense this is my interpretation of the intent of the lecture. I may have interpreted portions differently from you, and I ask you to ponder the words for your own interpretation. I did this Devotional Format so I can take the words into my heart, phrase by phrase, much as I would in reading poetry – that is, devotionally.

The blessings to me in developing this format have been truly profound, and my wish is that this Devotional Format will be a blessing to others. I invite you to slowly read and ponder this format of the text – with an open heart to experience the Guide's Presence and Love emerging from among the words such that the wisdom comes to LIVE you.

For clarity: The original text is in bold and italicized. [My adds of commentary/clarification/interpretation are in brackets, italicized, and not bolded.] To learn more of my Devotional Format and see the lectures I have done in this way, go to https://www.garyvollbracht.com/pathwork-lectures/pathwork-lectures-devotional-format/

Gary	Vollbracht
Gury	vonbrucht

¶#	Content 03 Greetings, my dearest friends.
	Blessings for all of you.
	Throughout the ages divine effort was focused on conveying true religion
	to humankind.
	That endeavor, however, was accompanied by an unavoidable reaction, not so much of • anti-religion,
	as you may believe,
	but of
	• false religion.
	This distortion is promoted by giving to falsehood the appearance of truth.

	If you follow
	the history of religion, you will be able to determine an obvious though gradual trend
	with many a relapse, leading from the • false toward the • true religion.
	Particularly in recent times, despite,
	or maybe because of all the
	• upheaval and
	• confusion, the trend is stronger than ever toward
	true religion.
	ir ue reugion.
04 What are the main differences between
	• true and • false
	religion?
	One of the main determinants is that in false religion
	obedience to authority is one of the great strongholds.
	In all valiations
	In all religions in some more, and in others less – the concept of obedience
	plays an important role.

	True religion
	does not obey.
	It [i.e., true religion]
	is free.
	True religion
	is a willing process:
	a
	• free,
	• self-determined
	action, derived from understanding.
	It [i.e., true religion]
	makes people act
	from
	• their own conviction and never from • fear, nor from
	• the desire to
	• please and
	• appease a more powerful
	• person,
	• being, or • authority.
05
05	Obedience to authority has been encouraged by exponents of religion under
	• the half-true and
	• only partly valid argument that humanity was too much enslaved by its passions
	to be let free.

	Therefore
	obedience had to be stressed in order to protect society.
06
00	Superficially
	this [i.e., this stressing of obedience to authority in order to protect society] may seem right;
	in reality
	it is not.
	For although it is true that the overall development of humanity is not advanced enough to be free of destructive impulses, the laws
	to prevent such destruction need not be combined with religion.
	In other words,
	religion
	would not have to convey the idea of a stern God-authority in order to prevent crime.
	There are other means to effect that [i.e., other means to prevent crime] through civil law [rather than prevent crime through religious law].
	• Religion
	need not be distorted and • truth obscured by encouraging humanity's • weakest, • sickest, and
	• most immature tendencies.

	It is those [i.e., those weakest, sickest, and most immature] tendencies that are exploited in order to maintain false religion.
07
	You know by now, because of your work on this path, that for the second s one of your great struggles is overcoming the unconscious desire • to remain a
	• to remain a • clinging, • cunging, • protected
	child,
	• to refuse the apparent hardship of • adulthood, • self-responsibility, and
	• independence.
	To the child in you it seems much better • to remain helpless,
	• to force
	• the powerful adult world, or
	• God, or
	• any substitute for these two,
	to take on the responsibility for your life that you yourself should carry.
	The tremendously damaging effects that this hidden attitude has on the personality can be discovered only when it [i.e., only when this attitude to remain helpless and to force God or another authority to take on the responsibility for your life] becomes conscious.

But unconsciously you battle against this very awareness, [i.e., against the awareness of this attitude in you to remain helpless and to force God or another authority to take on the responsibility for your life] wishfully thinking in your unconscious that • the disadvantages of • adulthood can be avoided by remaining a child, [a child] who at the same time refuses to face • the tragic disadvantages of • prolonged childhood. This soul-crippling attitude [i.e., this attitude in you to remain a helpless child and to force God or another authority to take on the responsibility for your life] finally succeeds in really making you helpless, while the god-authority you desire to take over your responsibility [for your life] is just not there [i.e., this god-authority is your god-image in your mind and is not there in reality as a god-authority]. This [i.e., unconsciously, this god-authority, being a god-image in your mind, and not being a god-in-fact and therefore not able to take responsibility for your life], in turn, causes • bitterness, • rebellion. and • a deep feeling of injustice. You feel cheated. After all, you have obeyed [this god-image in your mind], often to the letter.

	D 4
	But,
	obedience of this sort always has the wrong motive:
	"If I obey,
	• you will protect me.
	• You will make decisions for me.
	• I will not be held responsible and • I will be rewarded with happiness for being an obedient little child." Since God does not [in fact]
	"reward"
	such unhealthy attitudes, you
	must feel cheated.
	[Therefore, holding on to this "reward-for-obedience" god-image] You cannot help but feel injustice in the world.
08 False religion
	has encouraged and • capitalized on this very sick tendency [in the child-self].

It [i.e., false religion] • has set up rules [to obey] and dogmas [to believe], and • has distorted the law into such a rigid concept that humans fell easily into this • submissive and • dependent attitude. False religion encouraged • fear, • dependency, • helplessness, and • a humiliating, though often very subtle, tendency to appease. This has the additional crippling effect of causing • self-contempt [self-contempt for not being good enough to appease "god"] and • shame [shame for not being good enough to appease "god"], which in turn often has to find outlets that become destructive toward • others. as well as • the self. Rebellion must follow this set of emotions.

	The need for such "goodness" mostly stems from the hidden striving to remain a helpless child
	in order to make
	• the grown-up world or • God, or
	• life, or • human authority – see the necessity [and "duty" in response to the child's faithful obedience] of taking care of the child.
	ine child.
	And the child [believes that it] only "deserves" [as a "reward" for "goodness"] such benign care if it maintains its ["perfect"] "goodness." 10 By the same token,
	if [on the other hand] you encounter in a human being overemphasis on independence, hostile domineering tendencies, • toughness, and
	• denial of all
	• laws and • rules, you may be certain you may be certain that • fear, • cringing appeasement, and helplessness
	also exist, though hidden from awareness.

The shame surrounding these [unconscious] tendencies [to fear, appease, and feel helpless] is so great that the outer personality takes on a false • freedom and • independence in a poor imitation of the real qualities [of freedom and independence]. Because such people wish so strongly to avoid the struggle of life, they cringe like the predominantly • fearful and • appeasing type, but are ashamed of • this weakness, as well as of • the disappointment of not getting their way. Unconsciously, they feel • alone. They feel • rejected • by God, • by life, • by human authority, and this shame [of feeling alone and rejected by God, life, and human authority] must be hidden at all costs.

11
	Both
	crude types [i.e., both the fearful, appeasing, and obedient type as well as the type pretending to be free and independent from any authority] often appearing in more subtle
	• mixtures and • combinations – represent, of course, psychological deviations that can always be traced to • parental influences and • early experiences.
	It is also important to consider these [distorted psychological] manifestations from the • spiritual and • religious point of view, however.
	Complete
	• awareness and • understanding 0 of these [heretofore mostly unconscious inner] attitudes [i.e., the inner attitudes of both the fearful, appeasing, and obedient personality as well as the inner attitudes of the personality pretending to be free and independent from any authority] will show you how you inwardly deviate from your [outward] conscious beliefs.
	your [bulwara] conscious beliefs.

12 So where there is outer • religious faith, • obedience, and • appeasement, try to find not only • the clinging helplessness, but also • the hidden resentment that God has not come forth to provide you with what you • need and • want, [i.e., that God has not fulfilled His "duty" in response to your outer conscious religious faith, obedience, and appeasement, namely] • to lead you by the hand, • to make life right for you, • to eliminate from this earth [once and for all] • cruelty and • injustice, • suffering and • pain. Such general complaints are often motivated by the inner subjective disappointment of not being "taken care of" [by God, by those in authority].

	When for the other hand When [on the other hand] you find manifest
	• rebellion and
	• aggressiveness,
	• a drive for overindependence, try to find deep down in you
	• a wish for the strong hand of authority
	that is utterly good to you,
	and
	• your disappointment
	that you could not find it [i.e., could not find such an authority].
13
-	It will be a part of your task in [the psychological work of] self-search to ascertain where
	• false religion
	exists deep in your soul;
	where
	• you borrow, as it were, religious precepts behind which you • hide and
	• excuse your childish tendencies to refuse to grow up.
14
	Your • conscious right opinions are worth very little when they are undermined by your • unconscious
	• beliefs.

	While you may know perfectly well [intellectually and consciously] that • God is neither a • benign [i.e., gracious and rewarding] nor a • hostile [i.e., angry and punishing] authority,
	that
	• God has freed us and
	• it is up to us
	to develop [into healthy psychological and spiritual adulthood], you may often find [to your amazement]
	that
	• your emotions completely deviate from such [conscious intellectual] knowledge.
1.5 15 Problems
	you carry through
	• many incarnations and through
	• your childhood
	are instrumental in bringing these unconscious
	conflicts [i.e., conflicts between your outer conscious beliefs about God and your inner unconscious emotions of fear of and disappointments in God] to the surface.
	But so does the tendency of religion to encourage blind obedience [i.e., religion encourages blind obedience to a god authority, reinforcing your unconscious god-image of a god who rewards the good and punishes the bad].

Both causes [i.e., both the cause of problems in previous incarnations and childhood as well as the cause of false religion's encouraging blind obedience] produce personalities distorted by • helplessness, • false goodness, and • appeasement; or [by] • overindependence, • rebellion, and • false toughness; or [most often by] • a combination of both. In both instances [i.e., In both helplessness, false goodness, and appeasement of authority on the one hand, as well as, on the other hand, in over*independence from authority, rebellion against authority or false toughness*] you • hide something and • ardently try to prove to • yourself and • others that the hidden does not exist. In one case you hide the • rebellion and hostility; in the other, you hide the • helplessness and • desire for protection, • the tendency to • appease and • be falsely "good."

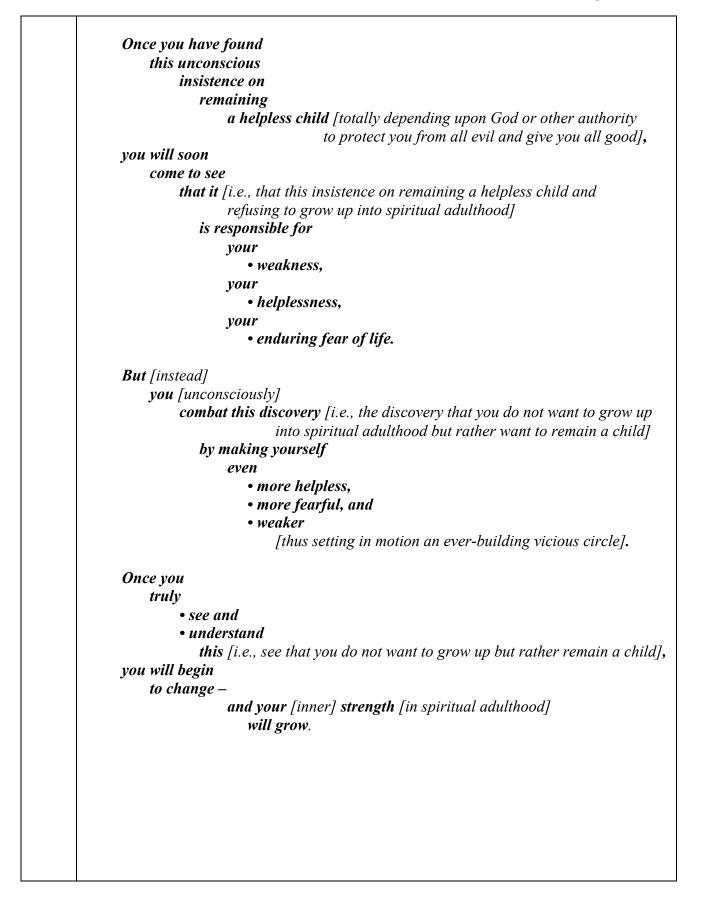

-
16 By • finding,
	• tracing, 5
	• understanding, and • resolving these distortions,
	you
	not only [individually]
	• grow up and [thereby]
	• become a • stronger and • happier human being,
	you
	also [on a broader religious and cultural level] • contribute much more than you can possibly perceive at the moment toward
	• the elimination of
	• false religion and
	• its [the false religion's] substitution by • real religion in the world at large.
1.5 17 Obedience,
	as false religion
	• encourages and
	• teaches it [i.e., as false religion teaches obedience],
	······································
	is completely incompatible with the idea that a free human being can attain divinity.

Once blind obedience is eliminated from • religion and from • the soul of the individual, rebellion against what is truly • good, • wise, and loving in religion will cease because religion will lose that tinge of • hypocrisy and • sanctimoniousness that it so often has for a number of individuals. • True religion, [which is always one and the same as] • genuine spirituality, aims primarily to make you • free, to make you • strong, to make you • responsible so that you do not wait for justice to be dished out to you [by God or other outside authority], but [rather] discover your own justice [i.e., justice as the natural consequences and effects of your own causes].

	With the unerge attitude [toward Cod] With the wrong attitude [toward God], you not only
	• fail to eliminate your self-imposed helplessness, you [even]
	• encourage it [i.e., you even encourage your self-imposed helplessness], as well as
	• encouraging false religion,
	even if
	• the weakness and
	• clinging to authority happens to take a consciously secular form.
	Thus you must see that such
	• immaturity and • soul deviations play hand in hand with • false authoritarian religion.
	•
	Anything
	false [e.g., here false authoritarian religion] always brings an equally false countermeasure [e.g., immaturity, rebellion, weakness, soul deviations].
18
	So,
	find in what
	• subtle, • deeply hidden recesses of your soul you expect
	God
	• to live for you;
	• to make decisions for you;
	• to bring desired results for you;
	• to give you what you could get for yourself if only you decided to become • free and
	• mature.

	Find in yourself this element that is more harmful than you now can realize.
	You cripple yourself with this hidden attitude [i.e., this attitude that God takes care of you].
	And you make a false crutch [i.e., you use the authority of false religion as a crutch] out of the truth [rather than use the truth directly for what it is intended].
19	 False religion does more harm to true religion than complete atheism and materialism [do harm to true religion] because it [i.e., because false religion] makes a farce of truth, of the dignity of the freedom and divine strength in humanity.
	It [i.e., false religion] puts a powerful argument into the mouths of the anti-religionists.
	So it becomes very important that you find where you continue to cling [to authority as prescribed in false religion] because you are afraid of standing on your own two feet.

```
You may at first wonder how to go about finding this element [where you cling to or rebel against authority espoused by false religion] in yourself.
I sav
    it does not matter where you begin if you focus on this goal [i.e., the goal of finding where you cling to or rebel against the authority espoused by false religion].
Take any negative emotion:
         • envy,
         • bitterness,
         • fear,
         • helplessness -
    and most indicative of all, • self-pity.
Once you ascertain these [negative] feelings, it will not be so difficult to find where you cling to • spiritual and
                • emotional [or psychological] infancy.
Search in this direction [i.e., search negative emotions and see where you cling to spiritual and emotional infancy] even if you believe this doesn't apply to you.
If you really want to find the truth
you will.
         You always have [found the truth when you truly wanted to].
```

20 Such a [clinging, submissive, and appeasing] relation to authority can take the form of a vague sense that the world at large
	must be appeased.
	This [vague sense of needing to appease, submit or cling] can be felt also toward
	• certain people, or it can actually be [felt] [toward]
	• your concept of God, which then leads to the God-image
	I have discussed before. [See Pathwork Lecture #52, The God Image]
	• False religion and
	• your unconscious insistence on remaining an infant combine to produce this God-image.
	Gou-image.
01 21 In the transitional state between
	• giving up false religion
	and
	• embracing true religion, there comes a phase of nothingness.
	It [i.e., this in-between phase of nothingness between false and true religion] is a difficult phase indeed.

22 But as • the false religion and • its God-image vanish, even while you feel temporarily alone, an inner force begins to grow in you, long before you become aware of it provided, of course, you • are not thrown by this temporary state [i.e., the state where you sense God does not exist], • but continue to [do your psychological and spiritual] work. You need to be willing [to continue to work and] to take it upon yourself [i.e., take it upon yourself seemingly without the help of God] to become • whole, • strong, and • self-reliant. You have to determine not to allow this temporary state [i.e., the state in which you feel God does not exist and hence life is meaningless] to crush you into abdicating • life and • struggle. If you fall into such a state [i.e., the state of being crushed and defeated by the illusion that God does not exist and life is meaningless], you cannot come out a • free, strong individual [i.e., cannot come out a mature spiritual adult personality].

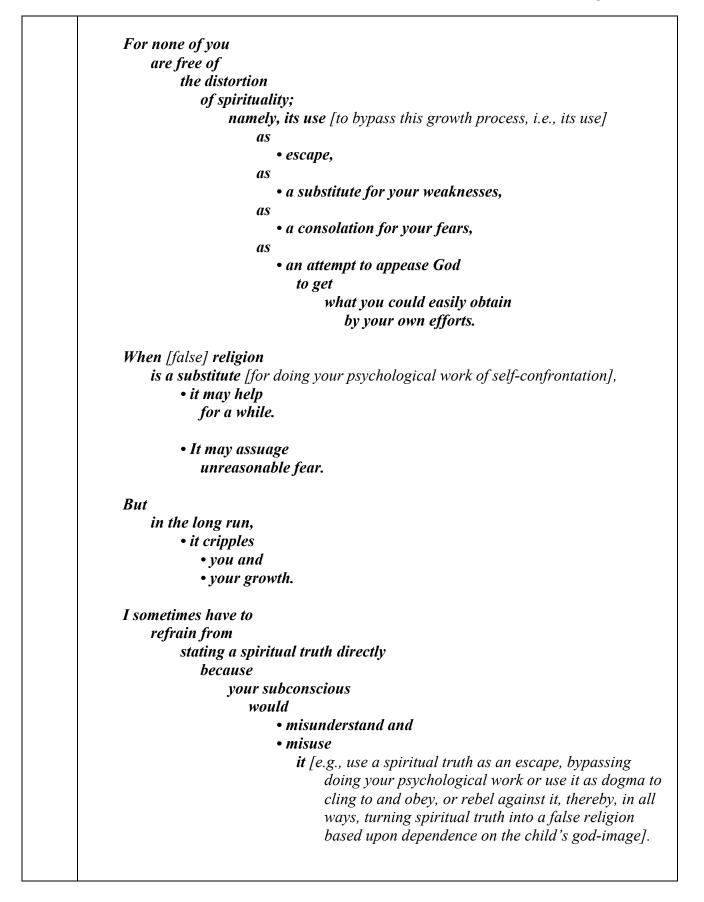

You may again fall back into the • misleading, • shallow comfort of false religion [with its "certainty" and dogma that the external authority of the god-image is real and should be obeyed and called upon for help rather than develop your own strength]. If [on the other hand] you develop your own strength for the very reason that you feel alone [and in feeling alone, you have no "god" to fall back on or ask for help], then you will be victorious, and the road to true religion will be paved by your own • attitude and • effort. This [developing of your own strength] is the only way you can • let go of the phantom-god [i.e., the external god-image of false religion] and • develop the real God – freedom within. The way to Him [i.e., the way to the real God – freedom within] is through accepting aloneness. Such acceptance [i.e., such acceptance of aloneness] will strengthen the • independence and • self-responsibility essential to the God-creature [the real God of your essence within] you wish to become.

23
	If you understand
	these words,
	not only • intellectually and • superficially, but after
	• working for a while and • coming across corresponding • emotions,
	• trends, and • reactions within yourself, you will understand two things
	a lot better than before.
	One [of the two things you will understand better] is the lecture on duality . [See Pathwork Lecture #81, Conflicts in the World of Duality] Accepting
	• death and
	• the unknown
	is the only prerequisite for accepting
	• life and
	• happiness – [but this kind of accepting death is]
	• not accepting death with a wishful-thinking spirituality, by avoiding your
	• fears and
	• doubts;
	• not by using religion as a crutch
	to support you in the face of • fear and • jear ana • aloneness, • aioneness, but [rather]
	• recognizing and bravely encountering them [i.e., bravely encountering death, the unknown, fears, doubts, and aloneness].

can • true religion and • knowledge replace • the false religion of escape and • the vague beliefs that serve only to cover up your fear.		doubts, and aloneness]
 knowledge replace the false religion of escape and ·the vague beliefs that serve only to cover up your fear. There is a mutuality here. Accepting · death and ·the unknown is connected with acceptance of · independence and ·self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate · spiritual and · emotional adulthood, · freedom, · growth, · creativity, · strength, · trust in the self, and 		- replace • the false religion of escape and • the vague beliefs that serve only to cover up your fear. 4 There is a mutuality here. Accepting • death and • the unknown is connected with acceptance of • independence and • self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate • spiritual and • emotional aduthood, • freedom, • growth, • creativity, • strength, • trust in the self, and		• true religion and the false religion of escape and the vague beliefs that serve only to cover up your fear. There is a mutuality here. Accepting death and the unknown s connected with acceptance of independence and self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate spiritual and emotional adulthood, freedom, growth, creativity, strength, trust in the self, and 		• of escape and • the vague beliefs that serve only to cover up your fear. There is a mutuality here. Accepting • death and • the unknown is connected with acceptance of • independence and • self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate • spiritual and • emotional adulthood, • freedom, • growth, • creativity, • strength, • trust in the self, and the vague beliefs that serve only to cover up your fear. There is a mutuality here. Accepting death and the unknown connected with acceptance of independence and self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate 		• the false religion that serve only to cover up your fear. There is a mutuality here. Accepting • death and • the unknown is connected with acceptance of • independence and • self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate • spiritual and • emotional adulthood, • freedom, • growth, • creativity, • strength, • trust in the self, and 4 There is a mutuality here. Accepting • death and • the unknown is connected with acceptance of • independence and • self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate • spiritual and • emotional adulthood, • freedom, • growth, • creativity, • strength, • trust in the self, and		• the vague beliefs
A There is a mutuality here. Accepting • death and • the unknown is connected with acceptance of • independence and • self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate • spiritual and • emotional adulthood, • freedom, • growth, • creativity, • strength, • trust in the self, and		that serve only
There is a mutuality here. Accepting • death and • the unknown is connected with acceptance of • independence and • self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate • spiritual and • emotional adulthood, • freedom, • growth, • creativity, • strength, • trust in the self, and		to cover up your fear.
a mutuality here. Accepting • death and • the unknown is connected with acceptance of • independence and • self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate • spiritual and • emotional adulthood, • freedom, • growth, • creativity, • strength, • trust in the self, and	24
Accepting • death and • the unknown is connected with acceptance of • independence and • self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate • spiritual and • emotional adulthood, • freedom, • growth, • creativity, • strength, • trust in the self, and		There is Accepting • death and • the unknown is connected with acceptance of • independence and • self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate • spiritual and • emotional adulthood, • freedom, • growth, • creativity, • strength, • trust in the self, and death and the unknown is connected with acceptance of independence and self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate spiritual and emotional adulthood, freedom, growth, creativity, strength, trust in the self, and
 death and the unknown is connected with acceptance of independence and self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate spiritual and emotional adulthood, freedom, growth, creativity, strength, trust in the self, and 		Accepting the unknown is connected with acceptance of independence and self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate spiritual and emotional adulthood, freedom, growth, creativity, strength, trust in the self, and 		10 is connected with acceptance of • independence and • self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate • spiritual and • emotional adulthood, • freedom, • growth, • creativity, • strength, • trust in the self, and acceptance of • independence and • self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate • spiritual and • emotional adulthood, • freedom, • growth, • creativity, • strength, • trust in the self, and independence and self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate spiritual and emotional adulthood, freedom, growth, creativity, strength, trust in the self, and self-responsibility. Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate spiritual and emotional adulthood, freedom, growth, creativity, strength, trust in the self, and 		· · Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate • spiritual and • emotional adulthood, • freedom, • growth, • creativity, • strength, • trust in the self, and accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate • spiritual and • emotional adulthood, • freedom, • growth, • creativity, • strength, • trust in the self, and
accepting independence and self-responsibility] indicate • spiritual and • emotional adulthood, • freedom, • growth, • creativity, • strength, • trust in the self, and		Both [i.e., both accepting death and the unknown as well as indicate • spiritual and • emotional adulthood, • freedom, • growth, • creativity, • strength, • trust in the self, and spiritual and emotional adulthood, freedom, growth, creativity, strength, trust in the self, and emotional adulthood, freedom, growth, creativity, strength, trust in the self, and adulthood, • freedom, • growth, • creativity, • strength, • trust in the self, and growth, creativity, strength, trust in the self, and
 growth, creativity, strength, trust in the self, and creativity, strength, trust in the self, and strength, trust in the self, and 		5
• trust in the self, and • real security.
		• real security.

	From
	• clinging appeasement and • blind obedience – often without understanding you will develop into a • strong • self-responsible being trusting in your own capacity to obtain
	what you need in life.
	You need the courage
	now to let go
	• of the illusion of false religion,
	• of false consolation.
	And in this transitory state [between your dying to false religion and being born into true religion], if you go through it [i.e. , if you go through this purification and trans- formational processes needed in moving from false to true religion], your strength will come from the truth.
26
20	The second point [of the two points you will understand a lot better] is the reason why I have often emphasized for quite some time • the psychological rather than
	• the spiritual
	-
	point of view.

	But
	• the more problems you resolve [on your own, through your work on the path], • the safer it becomes to tell you the truth [i.e., to tell you a spiritual truth directly] without the danger of reinforcing in you the tendency to succumb to
	false religion.
	juise rengion.
	Then [as you resolve more and more problems on your own] true religion
	will come
	• out of • your own strength [i.e., from your true divinity within – true religion], • not out of
	• dogma [taught by external authority for you to believe and obey – false religion].
	It [i.e., true religion]
	will come
	from within and not, as you now
	unconsciously expect it, from without.
27	Developing your own • resources and
	• strengths instead of obtaining them from a being outside of yourself is no less divine [i.e., developing your own resources is no less divine than obtaining resources and strengths from a being outside of yourself].
	Quite
	the contrary.

```
With this understanding, you will not mind
        my returning occasionally to a more spiritual approach [in order for you] to see where the psychological
                                  deviations – the • images, the • distortions, the
                                              • wrong conclusions,
                                         the
                                              • false solutions – directly contradict the spirituality
                                              that you all aim for.
Then,
    and only then,
will you fully understand that these [spiritual and psychological aspects of the path] are not two unrelated subjects: [rather]
                       • one is an integral part of
                       • the other.
```

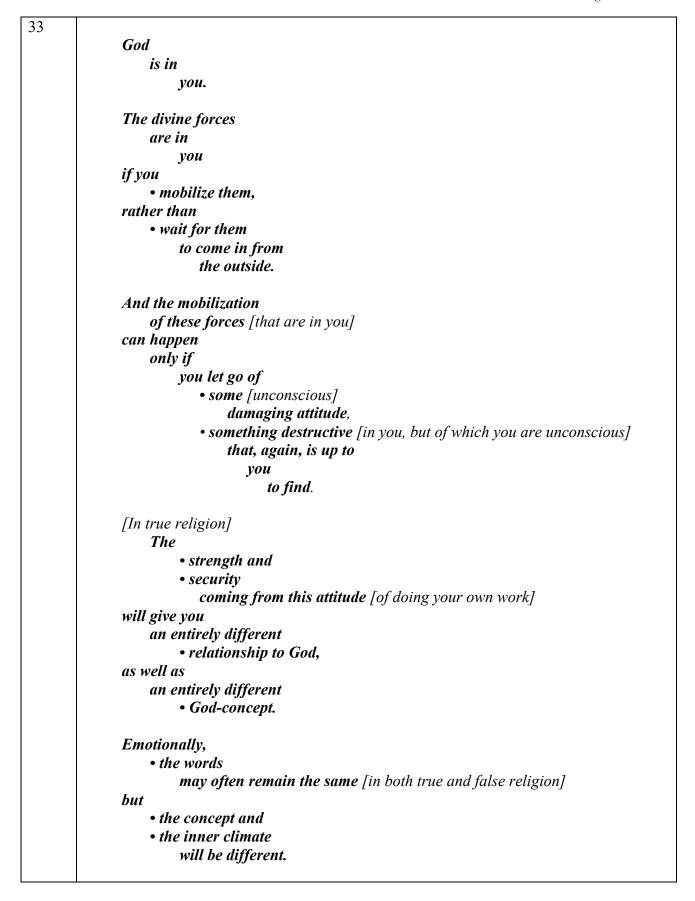

28	Now, my friends, are there any questions regarding this topic?
29	QUESTION: Could you explain what • true religion is, as compared to • the wrong attitude?
	Where does belief in God come in if you don't feel He is a help?
	I just don't quite follow this.
30	ANSWER: You will feel that God is a help when you come to true religion after abandoning the crutch [i.e., the crutch of clinging to the god-image of false religion], but [you will feel God's help in true religion] in a completely different sense. Now [while you still cling to the god-image of false religion as a crutch] you need God's help because you make yourself helpless.

	Codla vala [in two valiation] God's role [in true religion] is not to provide you with things you do not wish [to expend the effort required]
	to obtain
	for yourself.
	But [in true religion]
	the God-consciousness will reveal to you
	• that His world is wonderful and • that you have much more power [i.e., you have much more power from your Divine essence] than you have yet realized, if only you set it [i.e., if only you set this Divine power and essence from within] in motion by removing your own obstacles to fulfillment [by doing the psychological work required].
32
	The false religious attitude arises
	• when you ask God to help you overcome a hardship in your life
	• and then you
	• sit down and • wait.

You do not examine sufficiently why you have this hardship. You may do so [i.e., you may examine why you have the hardship] peremptorily [i.e., dutifully, without debate or questioning], because someone else in authority has told you to do so. But even while you attempt this examination, [unconsciously] you tend to try to prove that you have nothing to do with the hardship. [You insist that you are a helpless unfortunate victim and that] It [i.e., the hardship] has just fallen upon you undeservedly, and there is no way of getting out of it unless God intervenes with an act of grace. You do not muster the • inner will and • stamina to find how you can really get what you want out of your own creativity.

34 The words are often the same for both • true and • false religion, but the inner experience is entirely different. Both • the false and • the true religions say that God's grace exists. Even though you are on your own [in true religion], the grace still exists. But this understanding [i.e., this understanding that God's grace still exists even though you are on your own in true religion] will not come until you assume responsibility for yourself. As long as you [stay in false religion and] expect God's grace to make up for your human • laziness and • greed, you must be disappointed, whether or not you admit this [disappointment] to yourself.

35
	QUESTION:
	I understand.
	But how can we go about it?
	This God-image
	is so embedded in us after so many decades of learning the false attitude [of false religion]. learning the faise annuae [0] faise religion].
	Wouldn't
	prayer change too change too
	if we discarded this concept [of false religion]?
	Wouldn't
	everything change?
26 36 ANSWER: Yes,
	of course.
	But you see, my child,
	you cannot [simply] say,
	"Now I will discard my God-image." It [i.e., this discarding of your God-image] is not something you can simply decide in your mind.
	It does not work that way
	It does not work that way.
	Its [i.e., your God-image's] [damaging and blocking] emotional impact would remain
	if you tried to change it by a mere outer decision [of your mind or will].

In order to make an inner decision [i.e., an inner decision to discard your God-image], the procedure
has to be the same it has always been in this [psychological] work.
[Here is the work required in true religion]
• Find these attitudes [related to your God-image] and • understand them more fully.
If this [i.e., if finding and understanding your attitudes related to your God-image] is done deeply,
not just superficially, you will all be surprised to find how far you have gone to forcefully perpetuate infancy.
Once you • analyze and • understand certain [heretofore mostly unconscious] emotional behavior patterns, you will realize how preposterous they [i.e., how preposterous certain emotional behavior patterns] are; how incompatible [they are] with your conscious belief; • how contrary [they are] to your own best interests; how logically impossible [they are].
After • seeing and • understanding all this,
the change happens
organically, by itself, as it were.

	A certain period of self-observation is necessary in order to • gain full insight [concerning certain emotional behavior patterns] and then • be able to change [these certain emotional behavior patterns].
37	You must find these • subtle and • unobtrusive emotional reactions. They [i.e., these emotional reactions] are neither • obvious nor • strong. Nor are they • completely unconscious.
	They [these emotional behavior patterns and reactions blocking what you desire] are there but • they are subtle, and • you are so used to them that you do not even see anything amiss.
	To • find them [i.e., to find these emotional behavior patterns and reactions blocking what you desire] and • analyze them is the first step, and then • see them in light of this discussion.

	This [finding, analyzing, and seeing these emotional behavior patterns and reactions blocking what you desire] will help to dissolve
	the God-image [reinforced in you by false religion] because your attitude will naturally change. your annuae war naar ary change.
	You will, for instance, find • what your expectations really are,
	• how you inwardly complain.
	You will find
	• what you yourself
	could do
	to make these expectations a reality,
	to make these expectations a reality, and you will understand • why you have not done so.
	you nuve not uone so.
	This should be the procedure [i.e., the procedure for going from the God-image of false religion to the true God of true religion]. reagion to the true Gou of the reagion.
38 The very fact that you are aware of this God-image
	makes you extremely fortunate;
	many others are not aware of it [i.e., not aware of this God-image] at all.
	[Rather]
	They are convinced they do not have any distortion in this respect [i.e., in respect to this God-image] . in mis respect [i.e., in respect to this Gou-image].

	They do not connect certain emotional reactions with • this God-image,
	with
	• the false religious attitude.
	They are filled with their • conscious • right beliefs, while their • unconscious concepts are still too far from awareness.
39
	QUESTION: What religion is farthest away from the truth?
40
40	ANSWER:
	One cannot make such a statement.
	such a statement.
	It may be that one religious denomination has more truthful teachings, but another that has fewer [truthful teachings] may,
	in its overall attitude, be closer to truth.

	Apart from being dangerous to draw such comparisons, the question is not important.
41
	QUESTION:
	\widetilde{O} ne of the last words of Christ was,
	"Father, Thy will be done."
	Taken as an example, this could have meant • obedience, or it could have meant
	• freedom.
42 ANSWER: Exactly.
	As I said before,
	the words [in true and false religion] are often the same.
	Truth
	can so easily be misinterpreted
	because the essence of truth is the • willingness and • capacity to understand.

For example, from what I have discussed tonight, you could easily infer that there can be no grace of God. If you are supposed to be • free and • independent [as you are in true religion], where does grace come in [in true religion]? You would not even need it [i.e., not need grace in true religion]. [But] This [i.e., the statement that there is no grace of God] is not true. Grace does exist [in true religion]. But no words can convey the concept of grace unless you have first reached this true inner religious experience [of true religion]. When you • no longer need grace as a substitute for your own weakness [as you do in false religion], when you • do not make an asset out of your weakness [as you do in false religion], then you will become strong [from your inner Divinity, as you do in true religion].

	For a while [i.e., in the in-between period after having given up false religion but not yet having reached true religion] you will live
	without any understanding of grace, but then the true concept [of grace espoused by true religion] will dawn on you.
	In other words,
	this interim state of aloneness [i.e., this interim state without God and His grace, the state between having left behind false religion and not yet having arrived at true religion] must first be experienced.
	The great mystics designate it [i.e., designate this interim state] as the "dark night of the soul." 3
	The saying
	you just mentioned,
	"Thy will be done,"
	means,
	rightly understood,
	"I let go
	of my • small self-will,
	of my
	 limited outlook, and I open myself
	so that the divine
	can come to me."

	It [i.e. , the divine] will not come from without but [will come]
	from within,
	as a
	• deep knowledge and • certainty, but [the divine essence will come in this way as a deep knowledge and certainty] only if you will not disassociate yourself from this realization.
	Experience of unity with the divine [that is experienced in true religion] can happen only if you
	• learn to let go,
	if you
	• cease to be rigid.
44 The false meaning [in false religion] of "Thy will be done"
	makes humanity seem
	• weak and
	• stupid, so that you need another being [here God] to • act and • decide instead of you.

	This other being [who is to act and decide instead of you] is often a • human authority or • church authority claiming to act on behalf of God.
	"Thy will be done"
	does not mean
	• obedience [to an external authority, here an authority claiming to act on behalf of God, as is its meaning in false religion]; it [i.e., "Thy will be done"] means • opening yourself to the fullest possible extent so that
	the greater wisdom
	will become a part of you [as is its meaning in true religion].
45
	QUESTION:
	From what you say,
	it becomes clear that religion
	is a matter of each individual soul developing to its optimum point by way of
	• search and
	• self-realization.
	sey realization.
	The Churches have played a dominant role for many years, however, so it would seem that their function would eventually fall away.
	Juice with up a

46	ANSWER:
	Yes,
	indeed it [i.e., yes, indeed the church's function in helping souls develop to an optimum point] will [fall away as individuals take on their own role in their development by way of self-search and self-realization].
	When more people follow a path of self-recognition,
	• growing and • developing their own resources, they will no longer need [external] authority.
	As for those who are not yet far enough in their development [and whose inner authority is, therefore, still too immature and undeveloped], human law [rather than religious law] will suffice to protect society from their
	• untamed and • destructive impulses.
	The truly divine
	can function
	only
	in free souls, and this [i.e., the divine functioning in free souls] will happen.
	The whole trend of history points in this direction [as true religion emerges more completely and false religion dies away].
	una juise religion dies dwayj.

47
	QUESTION:
	You spoke about companionship.
	At times
	one has to be alone.
	How can you tell when that's [i.e., when being alone is] appropriate?
48 ANSWER:
	There is a simple answer
	to that [in true religion], although it's not always easy to know.
	When you • investigate your emotional reactions
	and
	• find that you want companionship
	out of fear
	of being alone,
	then
	the need for companionship springs, at least partly,
	from a poor motive. [Conversely] [Conversely] If you want to be alone
	out of fear
	of involvement because you have a strong tendency to withdraw,
	then
	your desire to be alone springs, again at least in part,
	from a poor motive.

	In other words,
	either tendency [i.e., either wanting companionship or wanting to be alone] can be • healthy as well as
	• unhealthy.
	uniceanity.
	An integrated human being
	needs both • companionship
	and
	• solitude, and [needs] both [i.e., needs both companionship and solitude] for • constructive reasons, rather than [needing companionship or solitude] to dia
	• avoid something you fear.
	The right answer can come only
	from rigorous self-examination [as happens in the work of true religion].
49
.,	More and more,
	you will see that truth
	cannot be stated as a rigid law [as is often the case in false religion].
	It [i.e. , truth] always depends on
	• how you feel and what the underlying motives are [and the discovering of these motives is the work in true religion].

50
	QUESTION: I try to find words to express my inner conflicts.
	my inner conflicts.
	The words [I find to express my inner conflicts] seem exaggerated.
	seem exaggeratea.
	How can I keep my words level with what I find in my search?
	what I find in my search.
51 ANSWER:
	First of all,
	you will have to understand better the reason for your self-dramatization.
	Once you understand that, the need [i.e., the need to over-dramatize your inner conflicts] will lessen.
	witt tessen.
	There will be a more proportionate relationship between your • words and your • feelings.
	Again,
	the remedy is not to use self-discipline to stop this.

	Even if you should succeed [in stopping the self-dramatization of your inner conflicts by using self-discipline], another, perhaps more harmful, symptom will come forth.
	Rather, use such manifestations [of self-dramatizations of your inner conflicts] as the useful [and revealing] symptoms they are.
52	QUESTION: Can I do it [i.e., can I use such manifestations as symptoms in my work of self-understanding by] trying to evaluate the words [I am using]?
53	ANSWER: Certainly. That would be part of your private work: • which words you use and • why.
54	QUESTION: Often it is very easy for • one subconscious to communicate with • another. But there are [other] times when there is such a strong barrier that one cannot penetrate [the other].

	The other person asks for the answer
	yet doesn't listen,
	and you fail to convey your message.
55
	ANSWER: Such people want
	only
	• a qualified answer;
	that is,
	• an answer compatible with wun their defenses.
	ineir uejenses.
	They do not want an answer that they find unpleasant.
	This [i.e., this unpleasant answer to their question] would cause an inner resistance so strong
	that they could not hear your call.
	[At this present time with this resistance] They cannot absorb
	what is being said to them.
	The [best] attitude toward a person in this frame of mind
	is
	not to try to force the issue.

The more you want to penetrate the resistance, the more • frustration and • impatience you will feel [in yourself]. And this [i.e., And your impatience] is bound to affect the other person [negatively] and increase the resistance even more. Moreover, [in true religion] it will be extremely useful [to your self-understanding and development] to analyze the reason for your own • frustration and • impatience. It [i.e., Your desire to communicate with the other] may be more than the goodwill to help. In some way your sense of competence may be involved. Or the other's acceptance of the truth may have an urgency for you that is not realistic.

	Whenever
	such currents exist [between two people], a mutually negative effect is established that worsens
	the inner problems of both parties.
	But
	finding what inner hidden role
	you play will be beneficial, possibly even for both parties.
	If you had no
	• negative or
	• problematic tendencies,
	you could easily accept another person's limitation.
	You know that.
	Now, this is a general answer, applying to many.
56
	If there is anything unclear in what I discussed tonight, I will be only too glad to elaborate on it
	next time.

57 May these words raise echoes in your emotions. As you let this lecture affect you, it will stir up so much! This is good. I go from you with all our blessings for the coming year for the work that is before you. Yes, help is given to you, but do try to recognize that you might [not yet experience true religion and hence will still] perceive it [i.e., still perceive the help] as • coming from outside, • unconnected with your own • endeavors and • strivings, and not as something that you mobilize, first of all, in yourself.

With this,
my dearest ones, be blessed!
be blessed!
• Love and • peace unto all of you.
Be in God!

For information to find and participate in Pathwork activities world wide, please write:

The Pathwork[®] Foundation PO Box 6010 Charlottesville, VA 22906-6010, USA Call: 1-800-PATHWORK, or Visit: www.pathwork.org

The following notices are for your guidance in the use of the Pathwork® name and this lecture material.

Trademark/Service Mark

Pathwork® is a registered service mark owned by The Pathwork Foundation, and may not be used without the express written permission of the Foundation. The Foundation may, in its sole discretion, authorize use of the Pathwork® mark by other organizations or persons, such as affiliate organizations and chapters.

Copyright

The copyright of the Pathwork Guide material is the sole property of The Pathwork Foundation. This lecture may be reproduced, in compliance with the Foundation Trademark, Service Mark and Copyright Policy, but the text may not be altered or abbreviated in any way, nor may the copyright, trademark, service mark, or any other notices be removed. Recipients may be charged the cost of reproduction and distribution only.

Any person or organization using The Pathwork Foundation service mark or copyrighted material is deemed to have agreed to comply with the Foundation Trademark, Service Mark and Copyright Policy. To obtain information or a copy of this policy, please contact the Foundation.