Pathwork Lecture 190: Importance of Experiencing All Feelings, Including Fear – The Dynamic State of Laziness

1996 Edition, Original Given March 26, 1971

This lecture is given in an expanded poetic format, what I call a Devotional Format of the lecture, and in that sense this is my interpretation of the intent of the lecture. I may have interpreted portions differently from you, and I ask you to ponder the words for your own interpretation. I did this Devotional Format so I can take the words into my heart, phrase by phrase, much as I would in reading poetry – that is, devotionally.

The blessings to me in developing this format have been truly profound, and my wish is that this Devotional Format will be a blessing to others. I invite you to slowly read and ponder this format of the text – with an open heart to experience the Guide's Presence and Love emerging from among the words such that the wisdom comes to LIVE you.

For clarity: The original text is in bold and italicized. [My adds of commentary/clarification/interpretation are in brackets, italicized, and not bolded.] To learn more of my Devotional Format and see the lectures I have done in this way, go to https://www.garyvollbracht.com/pathwork-lectures/pathwork-lectures-devotional-format/

|     | Greetings,   |
|     | my dearest friends here.                           |
|     | There is a great power of• blessing and        |
|     | • love   |
|     | • forthcoming                                      |
|     | and  |
|     | • generated  |
|     | in this room.                                      |
| 0.4 |  |
| 04  | Every once in a while I give a lecture             |
|     | which is an  |
|     | • outline or                                       |
|     | blueprint  |
|     | • shedding new light on the path                   |
|     | as an overall venture,                             |
|     | and also   |
|     | • casting light on                                 |
|     | 0 0  |
|     | the specific stage                                 |
|     | in which you happen to be at the time you hear it. |

05 We all know, my friends, how • important and • essential it is to • face and • accept those • aspects, • feelings, • convictions and • attitudes in you which are either • not at all conscious or • not sufficiently so [i.e., not sufficiently conscious]. Unless this awareness [of what is not yet sufficiently conscious] is cultivated, it is impossible to free • the innermost center of your being, • the nucleus from which all life springs. This has been said many times and you have done much work already. Let us now try to see where you are with respect to the ground still to be covered within yourself. How much have you unearthed [already]?

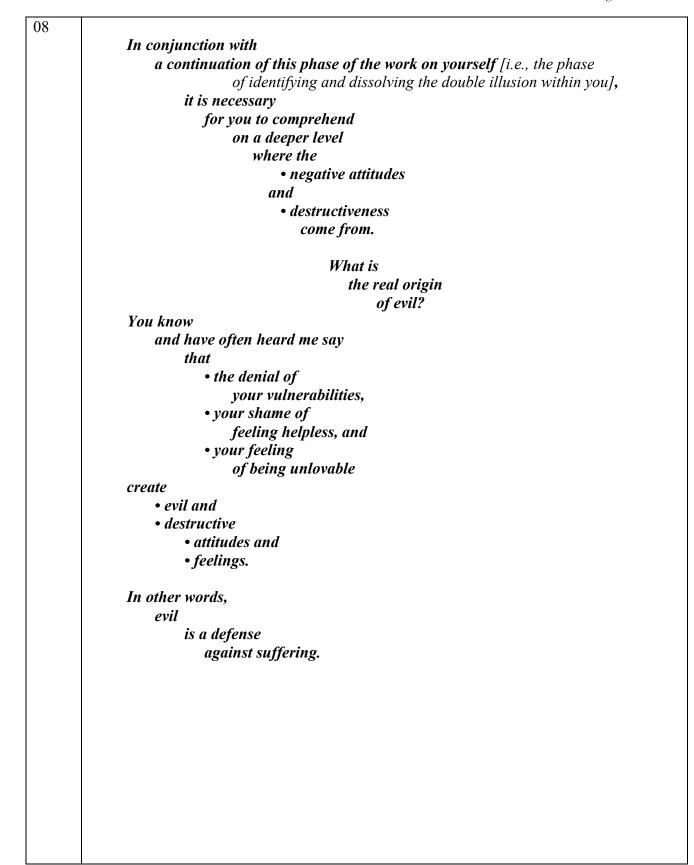

How much are you aware of • what is really going on in you, as opposed to • the superficial explanations you have so handy? When I address all of you together, I do not mean to convey that everyone is at the identical • place or • phase within his or her own path. But an overall picture can nevertheless be conveyed that is applicable to every one of you. Even those of you who started relatively recently can be included, for you have benefited from the work that others have done before. It is as though the efforts of others have paved your way to some extent, so that if you are truly willing you can accomplish • more, and • faster [than you could have accomplished had they not done this work before you started your work].

| 06 |   |
|----|---|
|    | As far as it is possible  |
|    | to generalize,  |
|    | I can say that  |
|    | by now  |
|    | many of you   |
|    | are in a position   |
|    | to acknowledge  |
|    | your  |
|    | • destructive,  |
|    | • negative,   |
|    | • cruel,  |
|    | • hostile, and  |
|    | • selfish   |
|    | • feelings and  |
|    | • attitudes.  |
|    |   |
|    | You are able to see   |
|    | the mechanisms  |
|    | of your defenses  |
|    | to some extent.   |
|    | But even  |
|    | this partial awareness [of the mechanism of your defenses]                        |
|    | makes so much difference!   |
|    |   |
|    | It [i.e., this partial awareness of the mechanism of your defenses] |
|    | shifts  |
|    | your entire position  |
|    | toward yourself.  |
|    | You no longer   |
|    | require yourself  |
|    | • to defend   |
|    | your defenses   |
|    | or  |
|    | • to pretend  |
|    | to be so perfect  |
|    | that everything in you  |
|    | ought to be   |
|    | "right."  |
|    |   |
|    |   |
|    |   |
|    |   |
|    |   |

| The admission                         |  |
| of heretofore                         |  |
| apparently inadmissible               |  |
| feelings                              |  |
| is                                    |  |
| the bridge to                         |  |
| • inner unity and                     |  |
| • fulfilling self-expression of life. |  |
| The acceptance of your                |  |
| • hate                                |  |
| will make you                         |  |
| • more loving,                        |  |
| the acceptance of your                |  |
| weakness                              |  |
| will make you                         |  |
| • stronger,                           |  |
| the acceptance of your                |  |
| • pain                                |  |
| will allow you to be                  |  |
| • more blissful.                      |  |

I have pointed out these apparent paradoxes often and I believe that many of you have actually begun to experience their truth. To whatever degree you • have accomplished this shedding of defenses and • have thus become that much more real, you have gained significant ground. This will make the further steps in that direction easier, for the beginning of any given phase is always the most difficult in every respect.

| )7 |   |
|----|---|
|    | To remove   |
|    | self-illusions  |
|    | seems at first  |
|    | insurmountably difficult,   |
|    | since   |
|    | all human beings  |
|    | vaguely believe   |
|    | that  |
|    | • the underlying truth [i.e., the truth underlying their illusions                      |
|    | about themselves]   |
|    | is  |
|    | unacceptable  |
|    | and therefore   |
|    | that  |
|    | • they themselves   |
|    | are   |
|    | unacceptable.   |
|    |   |
|    | Thus  |
|    | a double illusion   |
|    | must be removed:  |
|    | • the underlying belief in question [i.e., the illusory belief that                     |
|    | underneath your illusion you yourself are unacceptable],                                |
|    | as well as  |
|    | • the cover you put over it [i.e., the illusory cover itself that you                   |
|    | put over your belief that you yourself are unacceptable].                               |
|    |   |
|    | And this [i.e., seeing and removing this double illusion – the illusion that you        |
|    | are your illusion and the illusion that what your illusion                              |
|    | covers, the real you, is unacceptable]  |
|    | is always   |
|    | the most arduous part of the pathwork.  |
|    |   |
|    | Nor can it [i.e., Nor can removing this double illusion]                                |
|    | be accomplished   |
|    | in one fell swoop,  |
|    | but rather it [i.e., But rather than all at once, removing this double illusion] |
|    | proceeds in   |
|    | • stages and  |
|    | • sections.   |
|    |   |
|    |   |

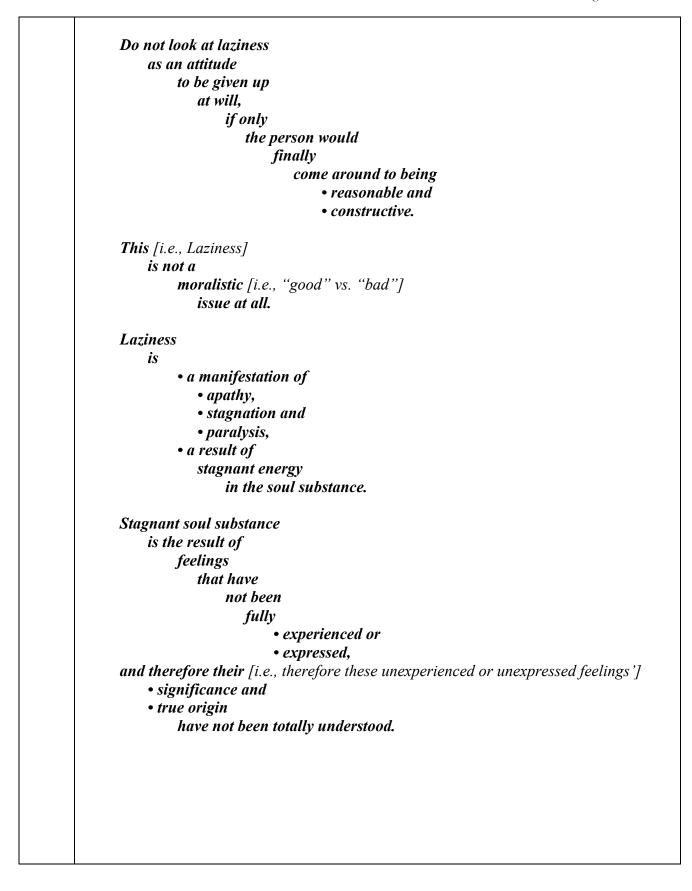

|    | All defenses [including defenses against suffering, i.e., defenses brought                               |
|----|--|
|    | about by evil]   |
|    | create   |
|    | • more suffering   |
|    | as well as   |
|    | • confusion,   |
|    | since [your wall of defenses protecting you from suffering also blocks outall other feelings] |
|    | you can  |
|    | no longer be connected with  |
|    | the real feelings in the self.   |
| 09 |  |
|    | It is therefore obvious  |
|    | that your further direction on the path  |
|    | can now be   |
|    | more directly concerned  |
|    | with the   |
|    | • hurts and  |
|    | • sufferings   |
|    | you  |
|    | • have endured   |
|    | in your early life   |
|    | and  |
|    | have defended against  |
|    | so far [your entire life].   |
|    | You who have learned   |
|    | to emotionally re-experience   |
|    | past feelings  |
|    | can corroborate  |
|    | as a felt reality  |
|    | what I have reiterated   |
|    | for so many years:   |
|    | the denial   |
|    | of the original experience [that caused you hurt and suffering]  |
|    | compels you  |
|    | to re-experience it [i.e., to re-experience the original experience                                      |
|    | that brought you hurt and suffering early in your lifetime   |
|    | and against which you built walls to defend yourself]  |
|    | over   |
|    | and over again.  |
|    |  |

|    | You• recreatethe denied experience [i.e., You recreate the experience that hadoriginally caused you hurt and suffering and which you deniedin order not to feel the pain and suffering it caused],and thus [i.e., and thus by recreating this original experience again and again you]• increasethe accumulated• pain and• hurt. |
|----|--|
|    | More of this re-experiencingmust still be done,and now it [i.e., and now this re-experiencing]can be done safely [since you are an adult and not a child, and are conscious ofwhat is going on in this re-experiencing].   |
| 10 | Too muchof what you sufferedas children,especiallythe extent of your unhappiness [caused by this suffering],is still onlyintellectual knowledgefor you.  |
|    | You donotfeelhowunhappyyou really were as a child,andfor a long timeyou believedjust the oppositeabout your childhood [i.e., you believed you were reallyquite happy as a child].  |

Gaining this knowledge [about how unhappy you were as a child] first intellectually is the necessary preparation
      to experiencing it [i.e., to experiencing and feeling how unhappy you were as a child].
Without
    such intellectual awareness of the truth of your childhood [i.e., the truth of the unhappiness of your childhood]
the defenses [against feeling the true unhappiness of your childhood] cannot be sufficiently weakened for safe re-experiencing [of your unhappiness as a child] on the emotional level.
When the defenses [against feeling the true unhappiness of your childhood] are still strong they block
    the path to the emotional experience
            so that
                • the attempt to get to the feelings is choked off,
            or
                • the sudden crashing through the defense causes injury to the psyche which
                               • can, and
                               • should be.
                                      avoided.
```

|    | You are   |
|----|---|
|    | now   |
|    | truly ready, my friends,  |
|    | to venture into   |
|    | the depths of your being.   |
|    |   |
|    | There [i.e., In the depths of your being]  |
|    | you can   |
|    | • let go, and   |
|    | • give yourself freely  |
|    | to all the accumulated feelings   |
|    | which up to now   |
|    | could never leave your system.  |
|    | They [i.e., Your accumulated feelings regarding the unhappiness of your childhood] could not be transformed |
|    | before now  |
|    | into their  |
|    | natural energy-stream   |
|    | precisely because   |
|    | you had   |
|    | locked the gates  |
|    | against feeling   |
|    | your feelings.  |
| 11 |   |
|    | Some time ago,  |
|    | I was asked to discuss  |
|    | the problem of laziness.  |
|    |   |
|    | There is  |
|    | an intimate connection  |
|    | between   |
|    | • the problem of laziness   |
|    | and   |
|    | • feelings  |
|    | that have not been  |
|    | fully experienced.  |
|    | J J I   |
|    |   |
|    |   |
|    |   |
|    |   |
|    |   |

|    | When feelings  |
|----|--|
|    | When feelings  |
|    | are not thus   |
|    | • experienced,• understood and   |
|    |  |
|    | • expressed,   |
|    | they   |
|    | • accumulate and   |
|    | • stop the flow  |
|    | of the life force.   |
| 12 |  |
|    | It is  |
|    | not enough   |
|    | to deduce [intellectually, logically and rationally]                               |
|    | that you must have   |
|    | in you   |
|    | certain past feelings  |
|    | which must have  |
|    | logically  |
|    | brought about  |
|    | the present circumstances.   |
|    | Such deductive knowledge,  |
|    | however,   |
|    | is often   |
|    | the necessary opening  |
|    | to allowing yourself   |
|    | the deeper experience [of certain past feelings of which you                       |
|    | are unaware and have not as yet fully experienced].                                |
|    | It [i.e., Such deductive knowledge that you must have within your being of certain |
|    | past feelings which must have logically brought                                    |
|    | about present circumstances]   |
|    | permits you  |
|    | to make room for   |
|    | the possibility  |
|    | of   |
|    | • existent   |
|    | • but defended [and denied, hence as yet unfelt                                    |
|    | and unexperienced]   |
|    | feelings   |
|    | to emerge  |
|    | in a full emotional experience.  |
|    |  |
|    |  |

```
However,
    the knowing,
         by itself,
            can be a barricade
when you replace
         • the feeling with
         • knowing.
In this case [i.e., When you know about the feeling but have not fully experienced the feeling] the unity of these two functions [i.e. the unity of the two functions of knowing and feeling] is interrupted in the same way
                   as when you • feel and do
                        • not know
                           • what the feelings mean,
                           • why and
                           • how they came about,
                        nor
                           • how they still direct your life now.
    • Feeling
and knowing

            not really two separate functions but rather tail ends
         of the same phenomenon.
```

|    | Thus [i.e., since feeling and knowing are not two separate functions but rather tail ends of the same phenomenon],     |
|----|---|
|    | • knowing [that a feeling must exist]   |
|    | can be as much  |
|    | a defense against   |
|    | feeling [i.e., a defense against experiencing and feeling a feeling]   |
|    | as  |
|    | • not knowing the feeling [i.e., not knowing that the feeling exists at all]  |
|    | or  |
|    | • denying the knowledge of the feeling [i.e., denying any knowledge you may have about the feeling's existing ] |
|    | can be [ i.e. , can be a defense against experiencing the feeling ].                                     |
|    | This shows that   |
|    | no rules can be established   |
|    | to ascertain  |
|    | when an emotion   |
|    | is blocked out  |
|    | by knowledge  |
|    | and vice versa.   |
|    | You will  |
|    | always  |
|    | have to look into yourself  |
|    | to see how you  |
|    | • use   |
|    | 0r  |
|    | • misuse  |
|    | a given approach.   |
| 13 |   |
| 15 | There still exist   |
|    | many defenses   |
|    | against   |
|    | the full experience   |
|    | of accumulated feelings in you, my friends,   |
|    | in spite of   |
|    | all your progress.  |
|    | uu your progress.   |

|    | lower the threshold   |
|    | of defending against  |
|    | your deep   |
|    | accumulated experiences   |
|    | which have become   |

|    | defending against   |

|    | • undesirable   |
|    | feelings.   |
|    | jeeungs.  |

```
This denial [of painful, undesirable feelings]
    stagnates
         energy.
When
    feelings
         stagnate, energy
         stagnates;
and if energy
         stagnates,
you
    cannot move.
As you know,
    feelings
         are moving energy currents.
They [i.e., Feelings] transform constantly from one
                   • set or
                   • type of feeling into another [set or type of feeling], as long as the energy
                              flows freely.
Not experiencing feelings
        stops
            • the movement of those currents [i.e., stops the movement of those energy currents, energy currents that are feelings]
       and therefore stops
            • the living energy.

When the natural energy flow is halted within your soul substance, you find yourself in the position of feeling laziness, that state where movement is possible only when it is forced painfully by the outer will. This explains the hankering that exists in so many people for a seemingly desirable inactive life. It is not enough to say that these people find the difficulties of life too much for them because they are immature. This [i.e., "Immaturity"] is merely • a label or • an explanation of an effect.

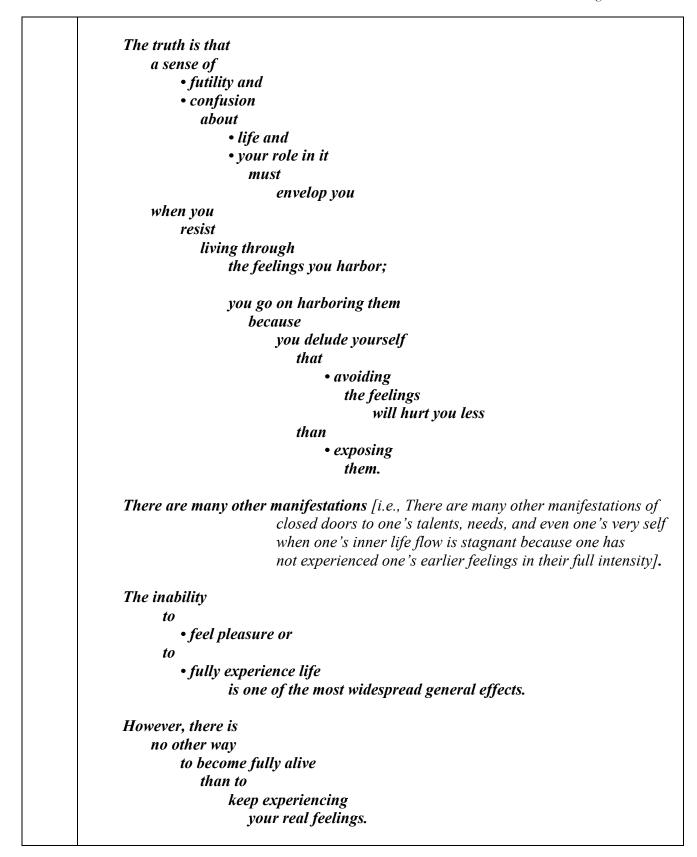

15 The stagnation of energy currents traps not only • feelings but • concepts as well. You • generalize from single occurrences and • hold on to the resulting false beliefs. It is rare that stagnant • feelings do not also include stagnant • conceptualizations of life. These [i.e., These stagnant conceptualizations of life] may exist in the deepest recesses of the soul, totally hidden from consciousness. This is what I called years ago the "images" that are held within the psyche. I helped you find these images, and you saw how you were compelled to re-experience • misconceptions and • stagnant feelings.

|     | And for that reason [i.e., And for the reason that you are not at all aware of |
|-----|--|
|     | your feelings experienced earlier in your life]                                |
|     | you can still  |
|     | delude yourself  |
|     | that   |
|     | • unhappiness and  |
|     | bad moods  |
|     | just befall you  |
|     | out of nowhere, or   |
|     | that   |
|     | • you have bad luck.   |
|     | you have bud men.  |

| - • | We mentioned many times  |
|     | that the human predicament   |
|     | is the dualistic split,  |
|     | which is nothing but   |
|     | a delusion of  |
|     |  |
|     | perception.This delusion   |
|     |  |
|     | has many facets,   |
|     | one facet being  |
|     | a split  |
|     | in the human consciousness itself.   |
|     | Human beings may   |
|     | • feel   |
|     | one thing,   |
|     | • believe  |
|     | another, and   |
|     | • act  |

|     | • feel and   |
|     | what you   |

18 The necessity of bringing together • feeling and knowing must become more obvious to you, my friends, also as a result of the progress of your own inner journey. You have already tasted how it feels when you release the waste material of years of accumulated feelings. Such waste material has its own toxicity which you accumulate when you do not feel your feelings. You also think thoughts you do not know you think, and act without knowing what motivates your actions, subsequently contriving explanations for them.

|    | any previously accumulated waste material.          |
|    |   |
|    |   |

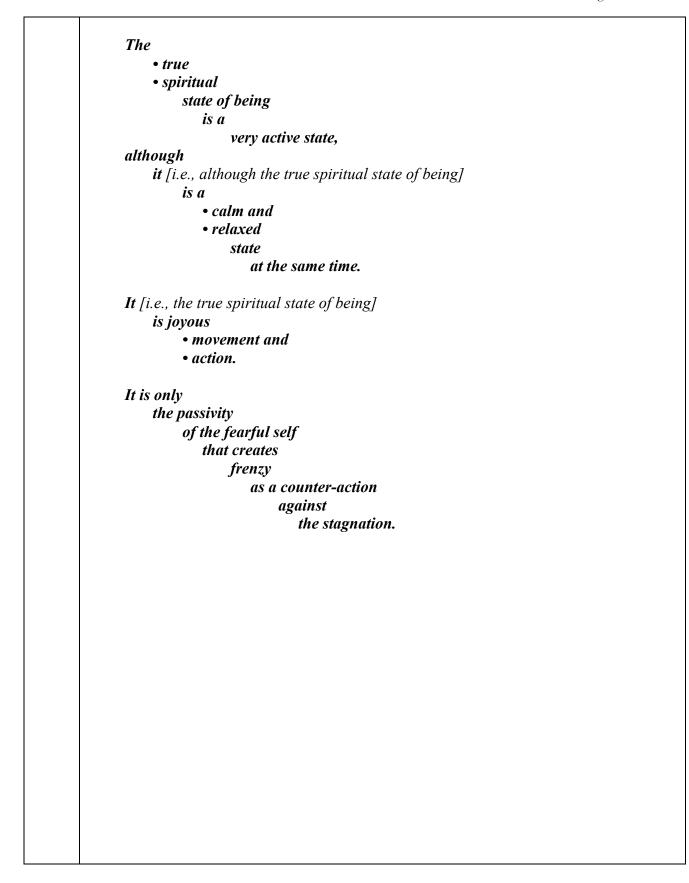

|    | But memory  |
|----|---|
|    | But memoryof previous incarnations  |
|    | is blotted out,   |
|    | so that   |
|    | you have  |
|    | only this life's  |
|    | past experiences  |
|    | to draw on.   |
|    |   |
| 20 |   |
|    | The dimming of memory [of previous incarnations]                                      |
|    | is a byproduct  |
|    | of the life/death cycle   |
|    | in which  |
|    | everyone  |
|    | is caught   |
|    | who denies  |
|    | feeling experience.   |
|    | When you go on  |
|    | <ul> <li>denying awareness and</li> </ul>   |
|    | • refusing to feel  |
|    | the experience  |
|    | of what you have lived through  |
|    | in this very life,  |
|    | you   |
|    | perpetuate  |
|    | • the process   |
|    | of dimming memory.  |
|    | Thus [i.e., By perpetuating the process of dimming memory by denying awareness |
|    | and refusing to feel the experience of what   |
|    | you have lived though in this very life]  |
|    | you   |
|    | perpetuate  |
|    | • the cycle of  |
|    | • dying   |
|    | and   |
|    | • being born,   |
|    | and this process [i.e., this cycle of dying and being born]                           |
|    | always manifests as   |
|    | a break   |
|    | in the continuity   |
|    | of awareness.   |
|    |   |

Conversely, you eliminate • this discontinuity of awareness, and with it • the entire cycle of • dying and • being born, by living through whatever has accumulated from this life wherever it is possible to re-establish the links of memory. If all the feelings of this lifetime are fully experienced, all residual matter of previous lives will automatically be dealt with because the trauma of the now is only a trauma because the previous pains had been denied. 21 You can do this, my friends, if you trust in • the process and in • the venture of • letting go, • truly letting go.

|    | It seems as though  |
|----|---|
|    | this [i.e., this symptom of paralysis or laziness,]                           |
|    | as well as  |
|    | many other symptoms   |
|    | have prevented you from   |
|    | living.   |
|    |   |
|    | But   |
|    | what really prevents you from   |
|    | fully living  |
|    | is your   |
|    | • fear of   |
|    | and   |
|    | • resistance to   |
|    | living the feelings   |
|    | you did not accept  |
|    | when they first came to you   |
|    | so painfully.   |
| 22 |   |
|    | Laziness  |
|    | is a protection against   |
|    | the movement of   |
|    | the soul substance  |
|    | which [i.e., the movement of the soul substance which]                 | |    | threatens   |
|    | to bring up the feelings  |
|    | you think you can   |
|    | go on avoiding  |
|    | without blocking your very life.  |
|    |   |
|    | Thus laziness   |
|    | is simultaneously an  |
|    | • effect [i.e., laziness is the resulting effect of not letting go and |
|    | of the stagnation of the soul that follows]                                   |
|    | as well as a  |
|    | • defense [i.e., laziness is a defense against feeling all one's feelings].   |
|    |   |
|    |   |
|    |   |

|    |  |
|    |  |
|    |  |
|    |  |
|    |  |

It is as though the personality • fought hard against the stagnation by superimposing compulsive action, and then • became more alienated from • the truth of its stagnation, and from • the reason for the stagnation, which is the fear of feeling • all feelings including [the fear of feeling] • fear. Only when this truth [i.e., the truth that the personality's superimposed compulsive action to overcome stagnation only led the personality to discover that in so doing it became even more alienated from both the truth of and reason for its stagnation] is fully • felt and • understood, when you • stop fighting against it [i.e., when you stop fighting against the stagnation] and • dissolve what causes it [i.e., dissolve what causes the stagnation] by feeling your feelings, can you come out of both • the frenzy of overactivity and • the paralysis.

|    | A number of years ago I spoke to you                                     |
|    | in a lecture on the phenomenon of self-perpetuation [Reference: Pathwork |
|    | Lecture 142: The Longing For And The Fear Of Happiness –                 |
|    | Also, The Fear of Releasing the Little Ego – April 15, 1966],            |
|    |  |
|    | and I illustrated  |
|    | how a denied feeling   |
|    | compounds itself   |
|    | so that it multiplies.   |
|    | For example:   |
|    | denied fear  |
|    | creates  |
|    | fear of  |
|    | fear,  |
|    | and then   |
|    | the fear of  |
|    | feeling the fear of  |
|    |  |
|    | the fear,  |
|    | and so on.   |
|    | The same is true   |
|    | about other feelings.  |
|    | Denied anger   |
|    | creates anger  |
|    | at being angry.  |
|    | Then when this [anger at being angry]                                    |
|    | is denied,   |
|    | one becomes  |
|    | even angrier   |
|    | 6  |
|    | for being unable   |
|    | to accept the anger,   |
|    | and on   |
|    | and on.  |
|    |  |
|    |  |
|    |  |
|    |  |
|    |  |
|    |  |
|    |  |
|    |  |
|    |  |
|    |  |

Frustration itself is bearable when you fully go into it. But when you are frustrated because you "ought" not to be frustrated, and then are even more frustrated because you deny it [i.e., you deny that you are frustrated when you think you "ought" not be frustrated], the pain [of frustration] extends. This process [of self-perpetuation of unfelt feelings] is so significant because it points clearly to the necessity of feeling directly [and immediately the feelings that are there so they do not, by your denying them, self-perpetuate], no matter how undesirable feelings may be. If you compound your pain because you deny feeling your pain, this secondary pain [i.e., the compounded pain, or the pain of resisting feeling the original pain] must become • bitter, • twisted, and • unbearable. If you • accept and • feel the pain, a dissolving process begins automatically.

|    | Many of youhave experiencedthis truth [i.e., this truth that if you accept and feel the pain instead ofresisting or denying it, a dissolving process beginsautomatically so that the pain begins to lessen in intensity]a number of timesin your pathwork.  |
|----|---|
|    | <ul> <li>The same is true [not only with the feeling of pain but also]</li> <li>with [the feelings of]</li> <li>fear,</li> <li>anger,</li> <li>frustration, or</li> <li>whatever the feeling may be.</li> </ul>   |
| 26 | Thus,when you• feelthe fear of [feeling]your [original] fear  |
|    | and• can let yourselfdrop into [and feel]the [original] fear itself [i.e., drop into feeling the original fearinstead of staying in the secondary fear, thefear of feeling the original or primary fear],   |
|    | this [primary or original] fearwill very quicklygive wayto another denied feeling.  |
|    | The denied feeling [i.e., this feeling beneath the original fear] –whatever it [i.e., whatever this denied feeling beneath the original fear]may be –will becomeeasier to bear  |
|    | <ul> <li>than <ul> <li>its denial [i.e., easier to bear than the denial of feeling beneath the original fear],</li> <li>the [original] fear [i.e., the denial of the feeling beneath the original fear IS the original fear and this original fear is harder to bear than the feeling it is covering].</li> </ul> </li> </ul> |

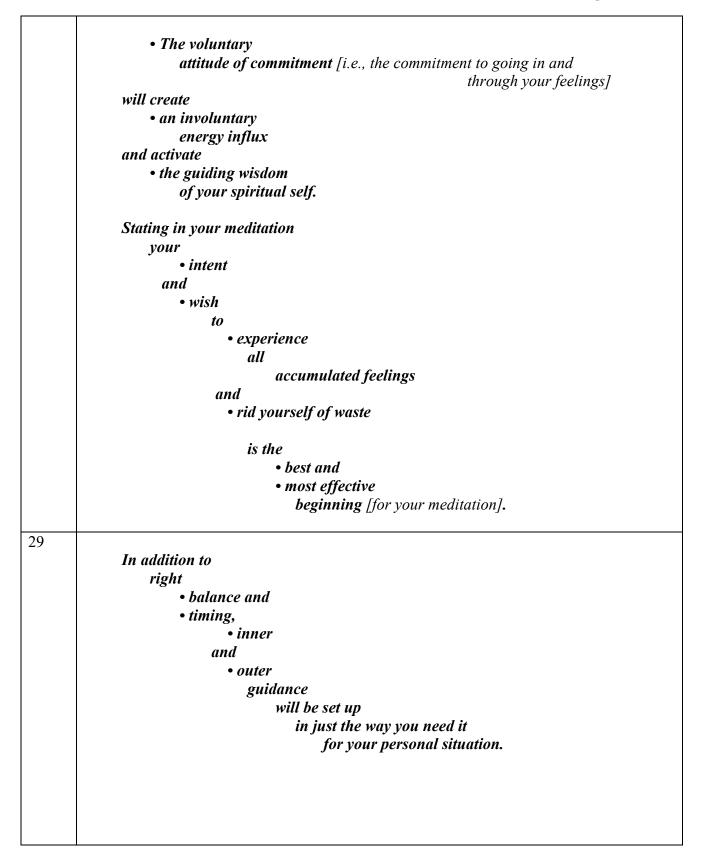

|   | is more bearable   |
|---|--|
|   | than the [secondary fear,]   |
|   | [the] fear  |
|   | of the [original or primary] fear.   |

You will learn to • become attuned to this [inner and outer] guidance
   and
    • sense it [i.e., sense this inner and outer guidance], rather than
    • miss out
   and
    • be • blind and
         • deaf to it [i.e., rather than be blind and deaf to this inner and outer guidance].
For it [i.e., For this inner and outer guidance] always exists
         as a waiting potential – not just for
                    • this phase of the path, of course, but for
                    • every single, specific phase that is necessary
                           for you to go through.
The • outer,
    • volitional self must voluntarily play its part so that the
    • involuntary self
            can then take over.
```

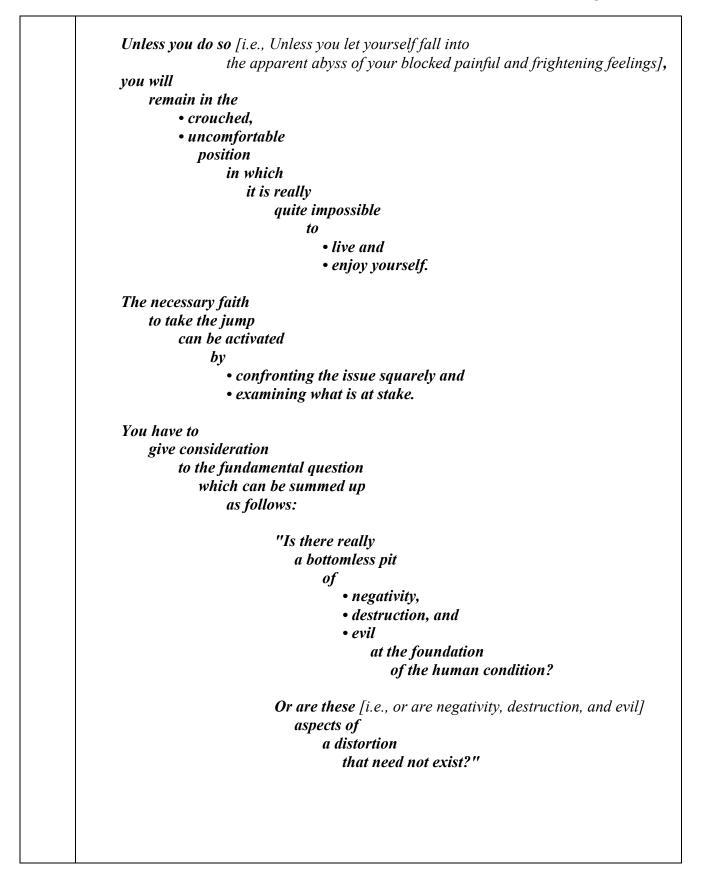

|    | This involuntary self [that takes over after the volitional self has played its part ofstating its wish and intent to experience all accumulated feelings]manifestsin two entirely different ways:• the higher• wisdom and• guidancejust mentioned,and• the surfacing of the selfthat often writhes in painbut deniesthe experienceof the residual painof long ago [i.e., pain of childhood].   |
|    | <ul> <li>The first [i.e., the involuntary self manifesting as the higher wisdom and guidance]</li> <li>helps and</li> <li>guides <ul> <li>the latter [i.e., the involuntary self surfacing as the self writhing in pain but who denies the experience of the residual pain of long ago].</li> </ul> </li> </ul>   |
| 30 | Through this meditational approach [i.e., this meditational approach in which youvoluntarily state your intention to experience all your accumulatedfeelings and rid yourself of waste and wait both for the involuntaryresponse of your higher self for guidance and also for the surfacingof that self that writhes in pain but at the same time denies andrefuses to feel the experience of the residual pain of long ago],energy is releasedthat can be directedto this all-important purpose [i.e., the purpose of feeling all your feelingsand thereby purifying the self by disposing of all the accumulatedwaste energy of feelings that have been denied and not yet been felt]. |

You often persuade yourself that you lack • the energy and • the time to go into the depths of your feelings [through such a meditation process]. At the same time you spend a lot of energy on other activities which may well seem more important at the moment. No matter how vitally important the other activities are, they can never be more important than this exploration [of your deepest accumulated unexperienced feelings from long ago], for attending to this life task [i.e., this life task of purification by the removal of your waste of accumulated unexperienced feelings from long ago] is your true reason for living. In addition, it [i.e., the removal of your waste of accumulated unexperienced feelings from long ago] is the key to productive living for you right now.

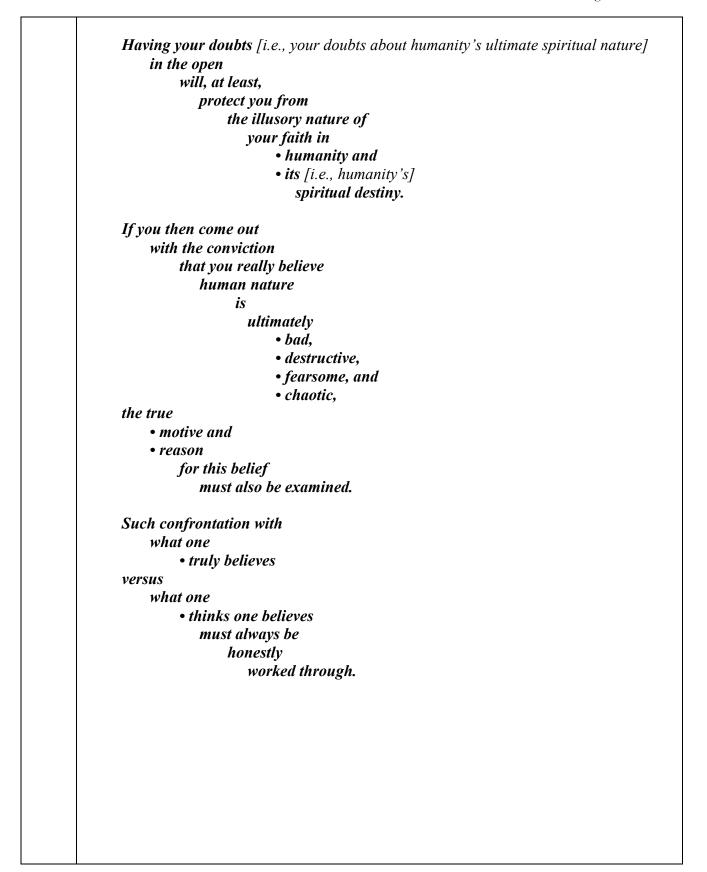

| 31 |   |
|----|---|
| 51 | The second important aspect of meditation   |
|    | is to summon  |
|    | your faith  |
|    | that "going in"   |
|    | will not annihilate you.  |
|    | wiii noi unniniuue you.   |
|    | What I say about this now   |
|    | may help you to do so [i.e., may help you to summon your faith that "going in"                            |
|    | will not annihilate you].   |
|    | Without this act of faith   |
|    | you will not have the courage   |
|    | to do it [i.e., will not have the courage to "go in" to your denied and                                   |
|    | unfelt accumulated feelings of long ago].   |
|    | To put it differently,  |
|    | if the  |
|    | • safety and  |
|    | • validity  |
|    | of this course  |
|    | is not clearly conceived  |
|    | at the outset,  |
|    | your disinclination   |
|    | to experience   |
|    | painful feelings  |
|    | will inadvertently lead you   |
|    | to manufacture an artificial doubt  |
|    | about the safety of the process.  |
|    | about the sujety of the process.  |
|    | Together with this [i.e., with this artificial doubt about the safety of the process] comes |
|    | an artificial illusion  |
|    | that "going in"   |
|    | can be avoided  |
|    | and still permit you  |
|    | to achieve   |
|    | • integration,  |
|    | • health, and   |
|    | • a full life.  |
|    | a juu aje.  |
|    |   |
|    |   |
|    |   |
|    |   |
|    |   |
|    |   |

| Avoidance of feelingsalways creates   |
|---|
| always creates  |
| such dualistic paradoxes of   |
| false   |
| • doubt [i.e., a false doubt about the safety of  |
| feeling all your accumulated feelings]  |
| and   |
| false   |
| • hope [i.e., a false hope that "going in" and experiencing all your accumulated feelings can be avoided and still permit you to achieve integration, health, and a full life]. |

If the universe is • benign and • trustworthy, • good and • safe, then you • cannot and need not fear to let yourself be what you are. There are many junctures where a human being's faith is put to the test. You have to face the discrepancy between what you • claim to believe and what you • actually do believe. If you believe in humanity's ultimate spiritual nature, then you have nothing to fear. If you do not [believe in humanity's ultimate spiritual nature], it is necessary to • be aware of this underlying doubt and • confront its [i.e., confront the doubt's] real nature.

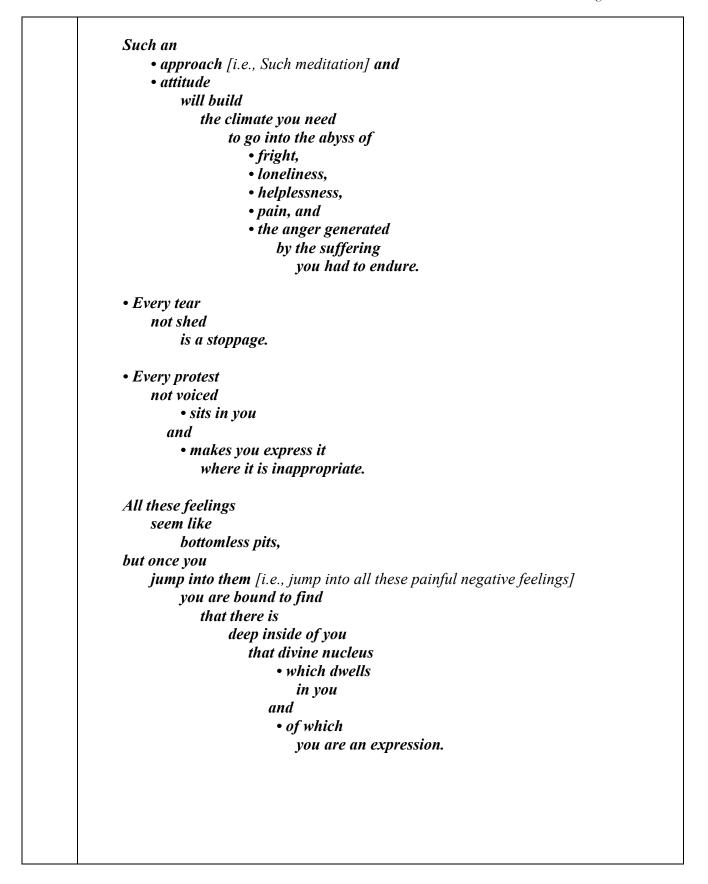

|    | This [i.e., This distinguishing between what one truly believes   |
|----|---|
|    | and what one thinks one believes]   |
|    | is true for   |
|    | any single issue of importance.   |
|    | • Help and  |
|    | • guidance  |
|    | can and should  |
|    | also be activated   |
|    | through meditation  |
|    | for this specific purpose [i.e., for the specific purpose ofdistinguishing between what one truly believesand what one thinks one believes]. |
| 34 |   |
|    | Also state in your meditation   |
|    | • that you wish to be aware of  |
|    | your special  |
|    | methods of avoidance [i.e., your special methods by which you avoid   |
|    | jumping into the abyss of feeling your accumulated unfelt feelings],  |
|    | and   |
|    | • that you no longer  |
|    | want to   |
|    | deceive yourself in this regard [i.e., in regard to your methods of   |
|    | avoiding jumping into the abyss of feeling your   |
|    | accumulated unfelt feelings from long ago].   |
|    | It is better  |
|    | to go on  |
|    | • avoiding the jump into the abyss [i.e., the abyss of feeling your accumulated unfelt feelings from long ago]  |
|    | and   |
|    | • knowing   |
|    | • that  |
|    | you do so   |
|    | and   |
|    | • why  |
|    | [you do so],  |
|    | than  |
|    | to  |
|    | • deny your fear of it [i.e., deny your fear of jumping into the abyss of   |
|    | feeling your accumulated unfelt feelings from long ago]   |
|    | and   |
|    | • pretend to be unafraid [of doing so].   |

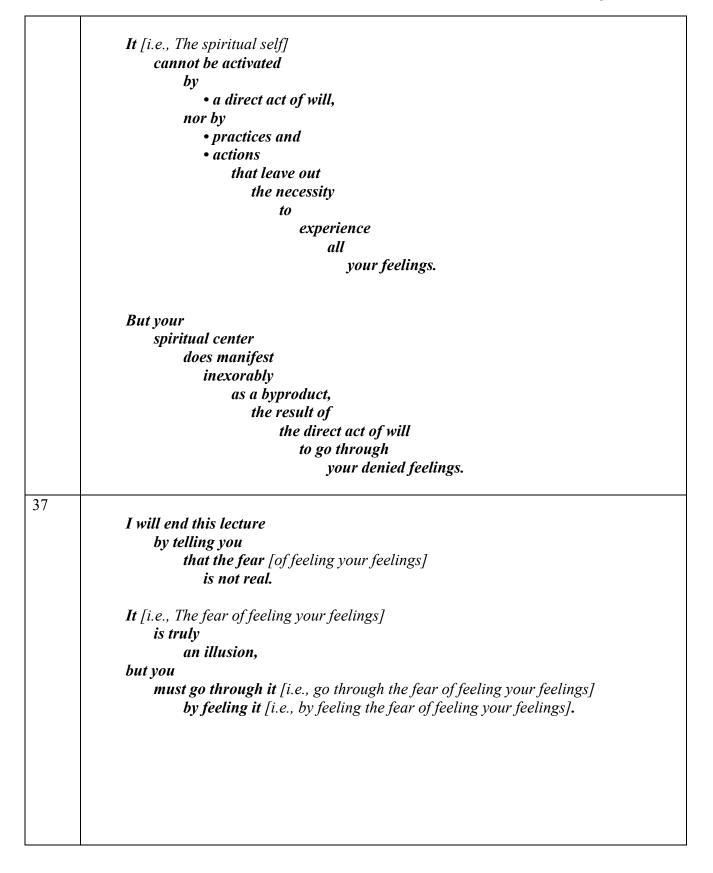

```
By freely admitting your fear [i.e., admitting your fear of jumping into the abyss of feeling your accumulated unfelt feelings from long ago],
        you are
            more in touch with yourself than when you deny the fear.
By confronting
    the validity of the fear, you may often find that the real reason behind the fear
              is
                • shame
            and its partner,
                • pride.
Denied
    • pride and
    • shame often create fear.
    • The idea that it is humiliating
                to
                   • have certain feelings or
                   • be in certain vulnerable states, along with
    • the idea that you ought not to be where you are [i.e., the idea that you ought to be more developed],
and
    • the feeling that your past suffering as a child is due to your being
                   • unacceptable and
                   • unlovable, all create the tendency to deny
         the state you are in.
```

|    | Butthe true underlying core feeling [i.e., the feeling underlyingthe fear of feeling all feelings]is oftenmerely• shame/pride and• the misconceptionthat the childhood painexistedbecause ofpersonal inadequacy [i.e., because the child believedhe or she was unacceptable and unlovable] |
|----|--|
|    | which the individual [as an adult still believesis true and]  |
|    | is too ashamed to expose.  |
| 35 | Crossing the barrierof• embarrassment,• humiliation,• shame, and• pridewill oftendissolve fear.You must• confront and• squarely facethese issues [i.e., squarely face these feelings that underlie the fear offeeling all these feelings].   |
|    | Only thus [i.e., Only by squarely facing undesirable feelings that underlie the fear of feeling all these undesirable feelings]   |
|    | can the way be smoothedto let yourselfgo into yourself [and feel all your feelings and truly live].  |
|    | Meditation [in the way I have described here]is a requirementwithout whichthe way [i.e., the path to full aliveness]becomesunnecessarily difficult.  |

|    | It [i.e., That divine nucleus deep inside of you]   |
|----|---|

|    | • light,  |
|    | a   |
|    | • warmth,   |
|    | an  |
|    | • aliveness,  |
|    | and a   |
|    | • security.   |
|    | All these [i.e., Light, warmth, aliveness, and security] are                |
|    | stark realities   |
|    | but can be  |
|    | experienced   |
|    | only when   |
|    | you go through  |
|    | the heretofore denied   |
|    | reality   |
|    | of  |
|    | avoided feelings.   |
