

Sacred Dimensions of the Pathwork

3-Day Online Engagement

Reaching Beyond Any Idea of a Self
Living Life in the Ocean of Awareness

Thursday 11/19 – Sunday 11/22, 2020

Led by Erena Bramos

“The movement toward the center [of beingness] is an infinite process. There is no stopping, no end result. It is forever new -- expanding vistas and possibilities of blissful being and self-expression. Within this multitude of creative possibilities boredom is impossible, as is fatigue, since fatigue is merely a result of the forces set in motion by striving away from the center. The incredibly beautiful state of being cannot be conveyed in words. It is a state that knows no fear whatsoever, since one knows absolutely that there never is an end to blissful life – only more and better choices. This is truly no illusion, my friends. It is the stark reality of the inner life of creative being. When the individual knows that all good can be had and need never end, as long as it is chosen, fearlessness comes about.” (Lecture# 168)

The Guide’s teachings tell us, again and again, that to drop deeper and deeper into this state is the existential longing that is the core of all our seeking as the existential fear of surrendering to this state is at the core of all our suffering.

And we are invited to meet this fear – to breathe through it to the courage which can support us both in our life task of releasing all the boundaries created by our attachment to the thoughts that give us the illusionary belief of having a separate, limited, existence, and in our challenge of trusting in the knowing that that which we seek – that which is really who we are – is what is happening in each moment.

In this weekend we will gather to invite each other to “contemplate” this; to share from our longing to go beyond mistrust and doubt; and, to allow consciousness to “dance” us into the open, spacious experience where everything is always changing and within which Presence is always felt.

We hope to see you there.
