3-Day Online Engagement-Module 10-2

Choosing to Live in the Belly of the Whale

The Fearlessness that Allows the Dying to Love

Thursday 11/18 – Sunday 11/21, 2021

Led by Erena Bramos, Beth Hedquist assisting

Whenever we acknowledge the truth of each moment, we are in peace, regardless of how much disturbance and unreality still exist in us as conditions to be gradually eliminated. That which creates turmoil in the soul, is the running away from the truth of who one is.

In love's presence there is no fear, no distrust, no illusion. But Love can flower only on the substantial soil of reality and fearlessness. L133

Today, as the world around us appears to be constantly changing, and as it becomes increasingly difficult to cling to the illusory sense of safety created by any beliefs about what is absolute reality, we are invited by Grace to the most essential obligation on the spiritual journey: to choose the fearlessness necessary to let go of any attachment of the mind to the pursuit of the knowledge we believe can allow us to control our experience; and, to welcome the ambiguity and perceived instability which is inevitable when we welcome the unknown.

This, the guide tells us, this most profound of choices will inevitably allow us to die unto the 'knowing' which can only be met in the heart; the knowing of the love that we are.

Join us in this weekend as we, together, will create sacred space to support each other to know that fearlessness is not the absence of fear but rather the willingness to embrace all that awareness invites us to taste as we choose to surrender to the ever-present Wisdom of Love.

To prepare for our journey together, read Pathwork lectures:
